Employee Handbook Acknowledgment

I, Peter Hale, confirm that I have received the Northwind Harbor Logistics Employee Handbook and that I know where to find the current version on the company intranet.

I understand that

a. the handbook describes company policies on conduct, safety, working hours, time off, expenses and the use of company systems;

b. I am expected to read it within my first two weeks and to follow the policies it contains;

c. the company may update the handbook and will tell employees when it does;

d. the handbook is a guide to company policy and is not a contract of employment;

e. I can ask my manager or People Operations if anything in it is unclear.

Site safety

I understand that terminal areas have additional safety rules, and that I must complete the site safety induction before entering any operational area.
